COMPUTER & INTERNET ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

Southend Libraries provide public access to PCs and the Internet in keeping with our role as a source of information, intellectual development, and enrichment for the community. The library reserves the right to restrict Internet access to research and information sources only.

Access to chat rooms is not permitted. Each user will only be permitted one hour per day. Users are only permitted to use their own ticket. Anyone found to be using another person's ticket will have their use and that of the other person suspended for a specified time. Access to live television broadcasts is not permitted.

While the Library does not wish to impose restrictions on users' access to information, we have put filters in place on our public Internet terminals to reduce the risk of inadvertent access to sites containing illegal pornographic or threatening material. Nevertheless, no filters are infallible and the Library cannot be held responsible for any potentially objectionable material which users may find on the Internet. We reserve the right to monitor Internet usage.

Transmission of any material in violation of any laws is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to: copyrighted material, threatening or obscene material, or material protected by trade secret. The Library has no control over the information on the Internet and cannot be held responsible for its accuracy, validity or currency.

All users of the Internet are expected to use these resources in a responsible manner, consistent with the educational and informational purposes for which they are provided. If individuals misuse Internet or other computer equipment in the Library, their right to use this equipment may be suspended for a specified time.

October 2008

Public Access PCs Factsheet 2

16/01/2014